To Customers of Kez's Kitchen

Re: Melamine & the source of milk products used to make Kez's products

We understand there is great concern in the international community surrounding the use of Melamine in certain dairy products manufactured in China and the possible contamination of products manufactured using raw material sourced from Chinese supply.

We are pleased that, after careful consultation with our raw material suppliers, we are able to confirm that all Kez's products are free from Melamine.

Kez's products are all currently manufactured in our facility in Noble Park, Victoria made from local and imported ingredients.

All of the raw materials that we use are free from Melamine and other contaminants and none of the raw materials which contain dairy have been made with imported product from China.

Thank you for your continued support of Kez's.
